JOHN JAMES ADAMS

General Manager

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 14, 1875

The senior statesman among the general managers in point of continued service in the National Hockey League is Jack Adams. Dean Adams is now starting his 40th season of direct association with professional hockey and his 33rd year at the helm of the Red Wings. In this, his record of longevity is greater than that of any man who has served the game.

The genial Fort William Irishman has indeed become one of hockey's living legends. From his initial playing days in the Copper Country of Michigan through his brilliant ten-year professional span in Toronto, Vancouver and Ottawa, Adams left behind him an outstanding playing record when he came to Detroit in the fall of 1927.

At that time he boasted a wealth of hockey knowledge gained the practical way, on the ice. He had set a Western League record for scoring, and he had started and finished his playing span in identical fashion, by being a member of a Stanley Cup winning team.

This, however, was only a prelude to a more brilliant career in the professional ranks. Adams almost single handedly built the Red Wing organization and the game of hockey in the midwest. He made his team the best-known of the United States' clubs in the National League. Certainly it has become the most successful in achieved results.

His play patterns and his unerring judgment of personnel as well as his farm system have become models for the other teams.

However, Adams' record of achievement in hockey is not limited to his contributions to Detroit and its organization. While the Red Wings are his first love, his all-encompassing regard for the game of hockey itself has kept him with a youthful, ever-changing outlook. This has reflected itself in many contributions at a league level, which in turn have led to the overall progress and prestige growth of the game.

Examples are the present penalty rule whereby a man is discharged from the box following an opponent's score; ice resurfacing between periods; the players' pension society; television of home games; many of the phases of agreement between professional and amateur hockey and between the National and minor leagues.

All of these have stemmed from Adams' unceasing devotion to the game. He is dedicated not only to his team and his game but to the progress of each. Many promotional schemes of present day hockey can also trace their beginnings to his theories.

Through the years and with all of this devotion to the game, Adams has remained a man so active that he has found time to participate civically as well as at his profession and to lead a full, rich life.

His appearance as a candidate for the Detroit City Council a few years ago, his presence on the board of trustees of one of Detroit's larger hospitals are but a few examples of his civic mindedness.

As a person, he is known as a most gracious host, and despite his abstinence from tobacco and alcohol is a most gregarious person, sought after at sports banquets. As a raconteur, he is unparalleled in sport.

Adams finds time to avidly follow the fortunes of the other big league sports teams in the Detroit area, and he views them with the same zeal he displays in hockey matters.

His love of people has caused him in recent years to spend much of his summer traveling the state of Michigan in the interest of hockey.

An avid reader with a most general taste in literature, he is a regular theater goer who prefers live spectator entertainment.

Jack and Mrs. Adams have made their permanent residence in Detroit for over 20 years.

His long and brilliantly successful association with the Red Wings is perhaps equalled for sports longevity only by the late Connie Mack in devotion to a single club.

a—Appointed Manager, Detroit.

SIDNEY GERALD ABEL

Coach

Born: Melville, Saskatchewan, February 22, 1918

Starting his first full season as a coach of the Red Wings is Sid Abel. The popular, black-haired, 40-year-old assumed the reins last January in an emergency measure when illness forced Jimmy Skinner to retire.

Abel is the fourth full-time coach in the club history. He is the first to bring to the position an extensive playing career as a Red Wing, as none of his predecessors, Jack Adams, Tommy Ivan or Skinner, ever played for the Wings.

Sid was a logical emergency choice. At the time of Skinner's retirement Abel was comfortably ensconced in Detroit as a representative of a steel firm and as a radio and television commentator on hockey. He had enjoyed two years' coaching experience with the Chicago Black Hawks before re-settling in Detroit. His success in lifting the club to third place dictated his being given the opportunity to handle them a full season.

The greatest center ever to wear a Red Wing uniform, Abel's playing record was dotted with brilliance, both in actual performance and in leadership qualities. Sid is the only forward in the history of the National League to have won All Star recognition at two different positions. He was selected the left wing on the second team in 1942 and was named to the first team center spot in 1949 and 1950 and the second team in 1951.

Sid started his career in the Detroit organization in the fall of 1938 as a left wing with Pittsburgh, then Detroit's number one minor league farm. At the two-thirds mark he was promoted to the Wings but saw little service. The following season he divided his time between Indianapolis and Detroit but again was not too active, this time because of a serious shoulder injury.

In 1941 he began his outstanding three-year stint at left wing on the old "linament line." Abel captained the club as well when they won the Stanley Cup in 1943. Two years in the Royal Canadian Air Force interrupted his playing career. However, he returned to hockey late in 1946 to begin an eight-year span as a top center and as a great leader.

He first came into his own in 1949 when he led the league in goal scoring and won the Hart Trophy. It was this year that saw him start with a club which was to win seven consecutive league titles.

At the close of the 1952 campaign Sid accepted an offer to begin coaching the Chicago Black Hawks. In his first season as a playing coach, although he saw little active duty, he had considerable success, boosting the club to fourth place and qualifying them for the playoffs for the first time in nine years.

The following season, lacking man power, Sid was less successful with the club, and in mid-summer of 1953 he resigned to take up the activities in Detroit which occupied him regularly and still kept him in touch with hockey until last January.

Abel makes his home in Southfield, a Detroit suburb, where in addition to hockey he is extremely active in youth work. In the summers he is a commissioner of youth baseball, and he has devoted much time to assisting the youth hockey program in the Detroit area.

The father of two children, one son and one daughter, Sid enjoys a family truly bred into hockey tradition. Mrs. Abel is the former Gloria Morandy whom Sid met and married when she was Jack Adams' secretary.

Respected throughout the league for having sound coaching judgment and the player's point of view, Sid has a philosophical attitude to coaching, and perhaps unlike some of his compatriots, has the ability to accept defeat without having it overwhelm him.

CUMMING SCOTT BURTON

Right Wing

Born: Sudbury, Ontario, May 12, 1936. Height 5'10". Weight 170 lbs.

Hard-going, two-way Cummy Burton is this season making his second bid for a regular spot in the National League.

Burton, who is a nephew of the late Larry Aurie, a Red Wing immortal, will again wear uniform number 6. This number was retired at the time of his uncle's death and was only broken out last fall when Burton appeared briefly in the Detroit lineup.

The Sudbury native played his junior hockey for the Wing's sponsored Hamilton club, turning professional at the end of the 1955-56 season. He saw limited service in a few league and playoff games for the Red Wings but had little opportunity to display his wares.

A year ago Burton began his regular career in the salaried ranks with the Edmonton Flyers. Slowed down by a mid-season appendectomy, he still displayed both ability and courage and started the 1957-58 campaign with the Wings. Here a knee injury took him out of action, and he was returned to the Flyers with the season a bare third over.

His hard checking and fearless style of play make him a strong prospect, while his hockey seriousness, but fun-loving, off-ice nature, makes him extremely popular with his teammates.

A bachelor, Burton is a drill operator in a Sudbury mine during the off season.

ALEXANDER PETER DELVECCHIO

Center

Born: Fort William, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 193 lbs.

One of the top centers in the National League, Delvecchio needs only consistency to establish himself with the all-time greats.

After six full seasons of National League play, he has demonstrated his ability to match the best on any given night but seems unable to sustain that drive in performance throughout any long stretch.

Nicknamed Fats because he is an easy-going, fun-loving, smiling young man, the 26-year-old Delvecchio may carry this same carefree attitude into play a bit too often. Despite this, he is a sound performer thoroughly respected around the league.

Four years ago he equalled the club record by scoring goals in five consecutive games, and in his National League career has tallied 121 markers for the Red Wings. He is only the twelfth player to reach the century mark as a Detroiter.

Originally scouted in his native Fort William, where he played Junior hockey, he moved to Oshawa in 1950. He was coached by the late Larry Aurie and finished second in the Junior O.H.A. individual scoring race. He turned professional in the fall of 1951, and after six games with the Wings' Indianapolis club won promotion to the parent club and has never been out of their lineup since.

Alex' greatest hockey recognition came in his second season. His 59 point total, equalling his highest National League achievement, won him the center berth on the second All Star Team. Twice, including last season, he reached the coveted 20-goal mark and scored 16 in the 1956-57 season, although he missed 22 games after suffering a fractured ankle in early October.

He maintains his permanent residence in Fort William, where he is currently interested in the furniture business. Married, Delvecchio has three children, the eldest is his only son.

GERALD EHMAN

Left Wing

Born: Cudworth, Saskatchewan, November 3, 1932. Height 6'. Weight 178 lbs.

Another of the new faces in the Red Wing lineup is that of converted wing man Gerry Ehman (pronounced Ee-man).

To obtain Ehman from the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League, the Wings turned over three players in an off-season deal.

The new wing is actually returning to his parent club, for Ehman started in the professional ranks in 1952 in the Detroit farm system, dividing his time between Edmonton and St. Louis.

Originally a natural right wing man, he was converted to the left side two years ago, and it is here that he has enjoyed his greatest success. The change came about when Ehman was sold to Springfield in 1956.

Last year the dark-haired flanker came into his own with a 79 point total, 40 of which were goals. This won him the left wing berth on the first All Star Team of the American League.

The newcomer will not, however, be making his debut in the big time this season. Last year he was called up for a single game with the Boston Bruins, and in his only National League appearance playing against New York he rifled one shot at the net and scored successfully, the only perfect record in the circuit.

DUNCAN ROBERT FISHER

Right Wing

Born: Regina, Saskatchewan, August 30, 1927. Height 5'8". Weight 165 lbs.

Newest of the Red Wings and the oldest rookie forward the club has ever acquired is Dunc Fisher. Fisher, a rosy-cheeked, rolly-polly, two-way flanker was obtained from Hershey during the off season. To snatch him away from several other National League clubs who were equally interested, General Manager Jack Adams gave up Don Poile and Hec Lalande.

The newcomer played Junior hockey and a year of Senior in his native Regina, turning pro in the fall of 1947 with the New York Ranger organization. He was farmed to their now defunct New Haven club of the American League, and in one year so established himself that he won a regular spot with the Broadway Blues the following season.

Fisher remained with the Rangers until the middle of the 1950-51 campaign when he was traded to Boston for Ed Harrison and Zellio Toppazzini. Following a full season with the Bruins he was turned over to their Hershey farm club, and save for a brief seven-game fill-in in 1952-53 has been at Hershey ever since.

His six-year record at Hershey shows four 40-goal seasons and a total of 190 goals in that span, and over 200 in American League play, including his earlier New Haven appearance. Last year his 41 topped the League in that department.

Thus, the Regina native hopes to enjoy the same success that has meant National League recognition for such players as Larry Regan and Norman Johnson in recent seasons.

WARREN EDWARD GODFREY

Defense

Born: Toronto, Ontario, March 23, 1931. Height 6'1". Weight 193 lbs.

Perhaps the most improved defense player in the National League last season was husky, smiling Warren Godfrey.

Now in his fourth season as a Red Wing and in his sixth year of major league play, the 27-year-old Godfrey came to Detroit from Boston in a nine player swap in 1955. He is the only player secured in the trade who is still a Detroiter.

"Rocky," as he was originally nicknamed in Boston, is a Patrick product. He was first spotted by New York General Manager Muzz Patrick while playing for Tacoma in the Western League in 1951. However, when Muzz attempted to purchase him for New York he found him already tabbed by older brother, Lynn, who took him to the Bruins. Thus, after one season of minor league experience, Godfrey was in the big time.

A sound blocker, he showed more effective rushing and shooting ability during the past season than at any previous time in his career.

A smiling, affable, rather ebullient young man, Warren is the father of two. He has joined the colony of permanent Detroit residents.

PETER GOEGAN

Defense

Born: Fort William, Ontario, March 6, 1934. Height 6'1". Weight 195 lbs.

One of the young members of the Red Wing blue line corp is hard-hitting Pete Goegan (pronounced Goy-gun).

To obtain Goegan from Cleveland in late February, the Wings sent rear guard Gordon Hollingworth to the Barons.

Goegan came highly recommended as a hard-going, fearless rusher and a sound body checker, and throughout the rest of the season although he showed inexperience, displayed considerable poise and lived up to his advance notice.

Thus, in a bare two years young Goegan made the jump from Senior amateur hockey to the big time. He had been signed to a professional contract by Cleveland from the Sault Sainte Marie, Michigan, Indians.

Unmarried, he makes his home in his native Fort William residing with his parents. He is a carpenter in the off season.

JOHN HENDRICKSON

Defense

Born: Midland, Ontario, December 5, 1936. Height 6'. Weight 175 lbs.

Newest of the Red Wing rear guards is lanky Jack Hendrickson, a product of Detroit's Junior club in Hamilton. Hendrickson has made the jump to the National League after one season in pro ranks.

He started a year ago with Edmonton of the Western Hockey League and proved that he could learn the trade of a professional defense man very rapidly. In fact, he was called to Detroit for one game early in the season as a utility player and filled in capably.

The rushing type, Hendrickson is a hard-bumping, willing rear guard who undoubtedly will cause many National League forwards to keep their heads up in the seasons to come.

Just married last summer, Jack is employed in the off season in a flour mill in Midland.

CHARLES FRANK HOLMES

Right Wing

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, September 21, 1934. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

Among the newcomers to the Red Wings is sturdy, right wing Chuck Holmes now starting his fourth full season as a professional hockey player.

Holmes is purely an Edmonton product. A native of that city, he played through their minor hockey system and on the Maple Leaf Juniors, being signed into the salaried ranks late in the 1954-55 campaign after completing his final season of Junior eligibility.

In three seasons with the Flyers, he demonstrated sound positional play and the ability to score big goals as well as to be the type of two-way player which the Red Wings prefer.

Holmes almost made the club a year ago. This year he has left no question.

Married, he continues to reside in Edmonton where he is a city employee during the off season.

GORDON HOWE

Right Wing

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 201 lbs.

Greatest of all Red Wings, and to many the greatest hockey player of all time, Howe will be starting his 12th National League season this fall.

The 30-year-old Saskatchewan youngster has already written his name in records of both the National League and his team perhaps more times than any other single player.

Howe ranks as the second highest goal scorer in National League history. His current total of 386 puts him within probable achievement of the 400 mark in the upcoming campaign. To this he has added 440 assists. This tops all National Leaguers in this department. His lifetime point total of 826 is the highest ever achieved by a Red Wing, the second highest in League annals and is only the second time a player has ever scored over 500 points in the major leagues.

Last season despite a series of rib and shoulder injuries, Howe continued his assault on the N.H.L. history books. He displaced Elmer Lach early in the season as the top assister of all time and wound up the year being named the League's most valuable player for the fourth time in six years. Thus, Howe shares with Eddie Shore the honor of winning the Hart Trophy more times than any other player in the history of the game.

In addition, Howe was again named to the All Star Team, the ninth time that he has been so honored. Six of these awards have been on the first team, three on the second.

Included in Howe's achievements have been five seasons in which he led the league in goal scoring, four of these, 1950 to 1954, were consecutive. These, too, are marks unequalled. This 95 point total in 1952-53, the league's all-time single season high, and his unchallenged mark of 20 playoff points set in 1954-55 are also included in his achievements.

At the team level Howe has been even more potent. He has been the Red Wings leading goal scorer for eight consecutive seasons and has topped the club in points as well in seven of these. As a result, he has literally owned the local trophies for both goal and point leadership. In addition, he has captured the Detroit Hockey Writers' award as the team's most valuable player five times in the past seven seasons.

An almost indestructible player, Howe has missed only 12 games in his last nine seasons.

Howe's story is one of the most famous in hockey. Originally scouted as a juvenile in Saskatoon by the late Fred Pinckney, Gord moved to Galt in 1945. His age prevented his playing with the Detroit sponsored junior team there. However, merely practicing and growing, he won a professional contract with Omaha the following fall on the strength of scoring two goals in his first pre-season appearance as a Red Wing.

A single year of minor league hockey brought him to Detroit when he was but 18 years old. Injury-hampered, it took him four seasons to establish himself as a star in his own right. Once established, greatness was his.

Howe is equally at home as a shot or play maker. He is a respected defensive player as well as an all-time great on offense. His ambidexterity is perhaps his greatest single ability. Too, he has had to overcome several serious hockey injuries, the most notable of which was a head injury suffered in the 1950 playoffs and which threatened his entire career.

Last season Howe was chosen as the toughest competitor in a poll of National League managers.

A year ago he became the first active athlete in the history of the state of Michigan to be elected to their Hall of Sports Fame.

Off the ice he is a quiet, soft-spoken individual with a deep-seated sense of humor. He has a genuine humility seldom found in an athlete of such great stature.

An avid, skilled golfer, Gord is rated as one of the better amateurs in the Detroit district. A year ago he captured the National League golf championship with ease.

Married and the father of two sons, he now makes Detroit his permanent home. He is associated with baseball player Al Kaline in a manufacturing firm.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY

Defense

Born: Simcoe, Ontario, July 9, 1927. Height 5'11½". Weight 193 lbs.

One of the oldest defense men in point of service in the National Hockey League, Kelly has truly become one of Detroit's all-time greats. The red-haired, tobacco farmer from Simcoe now ranks as the fifth highest point scorer in all Red Wing history and has won more honors than any other rear guard in Detroit annals.

His list of achievements in the National League are indeed a mark for any young player. He was the original winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy, three times captured the Lady Byng Award for sportsmanship and has won all star recognition eight times in his 11-year career, being named to the first team on six occasions. Had he not generously been available to play left wing as well, he might have won even more All Star honors.

His list of local recognitions is even longer. He has twice been selected to receive the Detroit Hockey Writers Award as the most valuable player and also is a two-time winner of the James Citron Trophy for sportsmanship. His greatest single achievement was a hat trick against the Boston Bruins October 21, 1954. This is the only hat trick that a defense man has scored in modern hockey.

Kelly made the jump directly from the Junior ranks to the National League in the fall of 1947. Outstanding at Toronto's St. Michaels, he reported to the Wings available as a defense man, left wing or center. It is at the former position that he has won his greatest recognition, but actually he has played all three with skill and taken an occasional turn on right wing as well. It was this all-around ability that cost him a first team, All Star berth in 1956. He had played 27 games at left wing, and selectors could not decide for which position he most merited consideration. The same ability handicapped him last season when again he was shifted to the forward line.

Slow to anger, despite his red hair, and noted for his dislike of profanity, Kelly is still a match for anyone who would battle him. He was a championship boxer in college.

Well-conditioned, he has missed only 21 games in 11 seasons. He is noted for his proficiency in playing the puck with his skates as deftly as with his stick, and is without equal in this skill. His footwork has made him a well-respected, off-ice dancer as well as a strong skater. He plays a steady golf game as well.

Kelly plans to maintain residence in Detroit, representing a local steel concern in the off season, although his tobacco and berry acreage in Simcoe and a local bowling alley he is constructing may dictate his eventual return to Canada.

FORBES KENNEDY

Center

Born: Dorchester, New Brunswick, August 18, 1935. Height 5'8". Weight 183 lbs.

Certainly one of the brightest prospects on the Wings is stocky, peppery Forbes Kennedy.

Kennedy came to Detroit a year ago in the trade which sent Ted Lindsay and Glenn Hall to the Chicago Black Hawks and in his first season showed himself to be a true Detroit type of hockey player.

Kennedy is one of the most recent players to have made the jump directly from the Junior ranks to the National League. Together with Eddie Kachur he was purchased by Chicago from the Montreal Canadiens' chain at the start of the 1956-57 season. The reported purchase price was $50,000.00.

Kennedy, who now makes his home in Charlottetown on Prince Edward Island, is one of the few Maritime natives ever to come into the Detroit organization.

Nicknamed "Spud" by his teammates, his spirited, fearless play and shy but friendly manner won him recognition from players and fans alike, and it was small wonder that he was selected by the For'Em Club as their Unsung Hero at the close of last season.

Too, he increased his goal and point output materially in his second season, thus escaping the sophomore jinx.

Kennedy summers in Charlottetown, where he is active as an instructor in the local Little League baseball program. He is married and the father of two.

LEONARD LUNDE

Center

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, November 13, 1936. Height 6'. Weight 175 lbs.

Lunde, whose name is pronounced Lundy, is certainly the brightest prospect to come out of the Red Wing farm system for several seasons.

A husky, handsome, blond, Norwegian youngster, Len turned professional in 1956 with the Edmonton Flyers, giving up his last year of Junior hockey with the Oil Kings.

In his freshman season he scored 61 points, 20 of them goals, while a year later he increased his goal production to 39 and his point output to 82 to lead his team in goals and to rank fourth in the league in points.

A year ago a Red Wing opportunity beckoned. However, his youth and lack of experience dictated one more year with the Flyers. Now he is in a Red Wing uniform and appears well started on his way to a long National League career.

JOHN ARCHIBALD McINTYRE

Wing

Born: Brussels, Ontario, September 8, 1930. Height 5'11'.. Weight 190 lbs.

A player who may well hold the key to the Red Wing future is veteran wing man Jack McIntyre. The personable McIntyre, who is Jake to his hockey teammates, came to the Wings as one of four players traded from Chicago last December. His record in a little over half a season with Detroit spoke for itself. Goalless at the time he donned a Red Wing uniform, McIntyre scored more goals than any other wing man, save Gordie Howe, over the rest of the season.

He is noted as perhaps hockey's streakiest player, running into hot scoring spells and suddenly falling with unexplained drops. However, in seven seasons as a full-fledged National Leaguer he has scored 86 goals, and because of his equal ability on either left or right wing is rated as a most valuable player.

He started in professional hockey in 1950 in the Boston organization after having played outstanding Junior hockey under Rudy Pilous at St. Catherines. His freshman season at Hershey, in which he scored 28 goals and 64 points, commended his promotion to the Bruins, for whom he past-timed regularly for two seasons.

Farmed out to Hershey at the start of the 1953-54 campaign, he was sent to Chicago in mid-year and remained with the Hawks, save for a brief stint in Buffalo, until he moved to Detroit.

A player with obvious potential, the Wing management feel that if consistency of performance can be developed, McIntyre can become one of the game's most prolific goal getters.

Detroiters best remember him in the 1952-53 playoffs when he almost single handedly eliminated the Red Wings, scoring the winning goal in the third game in overtime and again sparking his club two nights later.

Smiling, affable, rather quiet McIntyre and his family, including two sons and a less-than-year-old daughter, make their permanent residence in Byron, Ontario. He is employed in this London suburb in real estate during the off season.

WILLIAM RONALD McNEILL

Right Wing

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, January 26, 1936. Height 5'10". Weight 185 lbs.

One of the young players who might well come into his own this season is blond, stocky, powerful Billy McNeill.

Although only 22, McNeill has three full years of professional hockey under his belt. He started as one of the Junior-sponsored Edmonton Oil Kings six years ago and played for them the year they advanced to the Memorial Cup finals.

The following fall he was transferred to Hamilton where he thrived on Junior O.H.A. competition so well that he turned professional when he was still 19, entering the salaried ranks with the Edmonton Flyers rather than playing out his final year as a junior.

His freshman season was creditable, although like most first-year players he was far less effective in the last half of the campaign.

The next fall his aggressive training camp showing won him advancement to the Wings within the opening two weeks of the season. He started with a rush, but like the preceding year tapered off in the late stages. Last fall he was again in Edmonton livery at the start of the season, being promoted to Detroit just after Christmas. After a very slow start, he reversed his previous performances and finished strongly, showing many diversified talents and abilities which, if polished and directed, could transform him into an outstanding right wing.

A gregarious Irishman, he is one of the more personable members of the club off the ice.

He is married, makes his home in Edmonton and is employed in the off season by a soft drink distributor.

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 7, 1927. Height 6'1". Weight 193 lbs.

Oldest of the Red Wing forwards in years is left wing Nick Mickoski. The 30-year-old left flanker is making his third start in the National League.

Mickoski, one of big times' 10-year veterans, is actually in his 12th season as a professional, and in all but one of these the majority of his time has been spent in the N.H.L.

Nick started as a center in the New York organization with the New York Rovers in 1946. He turned professional in the middle of the following season with New Haven, then a Ranger farm club in the American League.

The following fall he was installed as a regular left wing with the Broadway Blues and save for two brief turns in the minor leagues never left the Ranger lineup until he was traded to Chicago for Bill Gadsby in the middle of the 1954-55 season.

In his third season with the Hawks, last year, he was moved along to the Wings in their eight-player swap early in December.

Mickoski has won no honors in hockey but has gained respect as a steady, durable left wing, sound in positional play, a good checker and a man who can score his share of goals. He is starting the present season with a total of 146 National League life-time goals. In the upcoming season he should reach the 150 mark easily.

A hard-spirited competitor, Mickoski is a player who is respected throughout the league by opponents and management alike, and he should be capable of giving the Wings several seasons of valuable service.

Mickoski and Red Kelly are the club's most eligible bachelors. Nick makes his permanent home with his parents in Winnipeg in the off season and is an avid golfer.

JAMES ANGUS GERALD MORTSON

Defense

Born: New Liskeard, Ontario, January 24, 1925. Height 5'11". Weight 190.

A veteran of a dozen years in the National Hockey League, Gus Mortson was acquired by Detroit in September from Chicago in a trade for players to be named later.

Mortson broke into the league in 1946 with Toronto and he spent six seasons with the Maple Leafs. Chicago bought the rugged defenseman in 1952 and he was a regular for the Hawks for the next six years.

A rearguard who likes to rough it up and won't back down from anyone, Gus has topped the League's bad men on four occasions, hitting his peak in 1956-57 with 147 penalty minutes. His 12-year total of 1,348 penalty minutes is equal to 22 hours in the penalty box.

Gus has that unique quality of leadership and can spark a team either by his hard and fast checking back of his own blueline or smart and quick dashes up the ice to the enemy goal.

The Wings expect Mortson to employ his knowledge and hustle to help Detroit's younger defensemen and thus become a welcome addition to the Redshirts' squad.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST

Defense

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec, June 15, 1930. Height 6'. Weight 190 lbs.

Pronovost in his seventh season as a National Leaguer reached his greatest height of recognition last year when he was selected to a defense position on the second All Star Team. This afforded Pronovost the additional achievement of being the most successful French-Canadian player in league history not in the Montreal system.

Marcel is a quiet, studious, serious individual. He has been a natural leader on and off the ice since he first came into the Detroit organization in 1947. He was originally scouted by Marcel Cote while playing juvenile hockey at Shawinigan Falls.

Sent to Windsor as a candidate for the Detroit-sponsored Spitfires, Pronovost's determination was exemplified by his equal interest in self-betterment in hockey, the English language and his education. His present record and presence is testimony to his success in all endeavors.

Marcel turned professional in 1949 when he was but 19 years old and was assigned to the Omaha Knights of the United States League. A rushing defense man, he won immediate acclaim by setting a league record for point scoring by a defense man. Too, he was named the league rookie of the year and was called up to the Red Wings as a playoff substitute in 1950. He appeared often enough in Detroit's successful Stanley Cup drive to have his name placed on hockey's most historic trophy—one of the youngest players to achieve this honor. The following season he started with the Wings. However, he needed defensive polish and was sent to Indianapolis in mid-year to tutor under Ott Heller. Playing a bare half season for the Capitols, he was so outstanding that he was named to the second All Star Team.

Pronovost returned to a Detroit uniform regularly in 1951 and has retained his position since. Like so many of his teammates he has been a pure product of the Detroit organization.

Married and with two children, he makes his permanent home in a Montreal suburb, where in recent summers he has occupied himself with the construction of a new residence.

An avid golfer, he ranks second only to Howe among the Red Wing linksmen and is rated as one of the best golfers in hockey. Too, Marcel is regarded as the best spoken bi-lingual player in the game.

Left Wing

Born: Killam, Alberta, June 10, 1035. Height 5'11½. Weight 170 lbs.

This blond, rangy youngster is gaining his first chance at the National League as a forward after having started in the Detroit organization as a defense man. The unusual shift came about by necessity.

Roggeveen (pronounced Rahg-uh-vin), who played defense for the Wing-sponsored Edmonton Oil King Juniors, was loaned to New Westminster in his first professional season, 1955.

His promise dictated a place on the Flyers for him the following season, and in mid-year a series of injuries caused him to be moved temporarily to the forward line. He showed great rushing ability and a strong shot, but again last fall was returned to the rear guard and was under consideration for the fifth defense spot with the Wings when he was stricken with appendicitis late in the training period.

Thus, he returned to the Flyers, and again in mid-season was moved up to the forward line, where he scored so freely that it is felt this is his final nitch.

TERRANCE GORDON SAWCHUK

Goaltender

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5'11". Weight 180 lbs.

Senior goalkeeper, in point of service in the National League, Terry Sawchuk is starting his ninth regular season in the big time and his seventh with the Wings.

Sawchuk has one of the most impressive goalkeeping records in hockey history. A product of the Detroit Junior farm club, the Windsor Spitfires, he turned professional at age 17 with the Omaha Knights of the old United States league in 1947. In his freshman season he topped the circuit in shutouts and won the league's rookie of the year award. Immediately Sawchuk was advanced to Indianapolis, where in his first season he duplicated his performance of being chosen the outstanding rookie.

During his two-year stint with the Capitols, he made his National League debut as a seven-game substitute for Harry Lumley when the latter was injured. On this showing Sawchuk advanced to the Wings in the fall of 1950 after Lumley had been traded to Chicago.

This was the start of a brilliant five-year span for Terry. He played on five consecutive league championship teams; won the Vezina Trophy three times; led the league in shutouts three times; and won All Star recognition on either the first or second team each year. Three times he was the first All Star goalie. His average never rose above 1.98.

Terry wrote his name into the record books in the 1952 playoffs when he equalled a league record by turning in four consecutive home ice shutouts, as his team swept to the Stanley Cup in eight straight games.

He was traded to Boston in the summer of 1955 to make way for Glenn Hall. With the Bruins he performed in outstanding fashion until stricken with mononucleosis in late 1956. He was returned to the lineup prematurely, according to his judgment, and chose to retire from hockey. A year ago Jack Adams, believing him "the greatest goalie in the world in a Detroit uniform," sent John Bucyk and cash to the Bruins to reacquire Sawchuk.

His work during the past season speaks for itself. With a sub-standard defense, Sawchuk performed brilliantly throughout, and his record gives no indication of the fact that he faced more shots than any other goalie in the league. Despite these handicaps, Sawchuk displayed more team spirit and enthusiasm than at most any previous time in his career, and the Wing management believes that the coming season will see him restored to the sature of greatness in the eyes of most hockey observers.

Married and the father of three children, the 28-year-old Ukranian youngster is now a full-fledged Detroiter. He maintains a year-round residence in a Detroit suburb and heads a small sales agency, centered at nearby Plymouth.

NORMAN ULLMAN

Center

Born: Provost, Alberta, December 26, 1935. Height 5'10". Weight 182 lbs.

Now starting his fourth season with the Red Wings and his fifth season in professional hockey, Ullman could blossom into one of the best centers in the league. The quiet, determined Albertan is unspectacular, unemotional but effective in his play.

Only 22 years of age, he already has four seasons of professional hockey behind him. He began his career in the Detroit organization as a key forward with the Edmonton Oil King Juniors. Norm led the Wings' sponsored club to the Memorial Cup finals in 1954, the highest achievement any Detroit-directed Junior club ever attained. As a result, he was scheduled to move into the National League the following fall while still eligible for Junior play. However, an early August ankle injury suffered in a soft ball game delayed his appearance in training camp until the closing week. Thus, it was decided to start him in professional competition with the Edmonton Flyers.

Despite injuries which kept him out of 10 games, he was the fourth highest scorer for his team as they won the season schedule and playoff championship in the Western League.

In his freshman season with the Wings he was used primarily as a third line center and spot player, yet progressed so well that he won considerable late-season praise. The following fall he was given the first line spot between Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, and here he performed in true big league style until a leg injury in early February took him out of the lineup for five games. Despite a loss of form over the rest of the season, Ullman finished tenth in the National League point race and third among the Wings.

Last fall he was moved about on various lines at the start of the season, finally returning to team with Howe as Detroit's number one combination. His late season surge, which brought his goal total to 23, made him the second highest of the Wings in this department. Even more encouraging was the fact that over half of his points came after New Year's, and many credited him with being responsible for the Wings third place finish.

Now mature both in age and hockey, he is expected to reach a new high in the upcoming season.

Married and the father of one son, Ullman's permanent residence is in Edmonton, where he is employed by the city as a traffic clerk during the off season.

Born: Kincardine, Ontario, June 14, 1929. Height 5'10". Weight 173 lbs.

Sandy-haired, chunky, brush-cut John Wilson might well blossom into the top left wing in the National League in the coming season.

Wilson, a veteran of 6½ years of play in the big time, has twice been a member of the Red Wing organization.

Originally scouted at Shawinigan Falls with his brother Larry and Marcel Pronovost by Marcel Cote, Wilson joined the Detroit-sponsored Windsor Spitfires in 1947. He began his climb up the professional ladder in Omaha two years later scoring 80 points in his freshman year, 41 of them goals. So promising was this star that he was called to the Wings as a playoff replacement in March. He appeared in eight of the club's 14 games and placed his name on the coveted Stanley Cup in his first hockey year when the Wings bested New York in the final round.

A season and a half at Indianapolis followed in which Wilson progressed to score almost 100 points in 100 games. He moved into a regular spot with Detroit mid-way in the 1951-52 season and has established himself as a full-fledged major leaguer ever since.

Following 3½ years with the Wings he was one of four players traded to Chicago during the summer of 1955. Two seasons with the Hawks, in which he scored 42 goals, so commended him to the Detroit management that Jack Adams was quick to obtain him when the opportunity presented itself a year ago.

He started slowly on his return to the Wings but by mid-season regained his old shooting eye and was one of their most valuable assets during the stretch drive. In all he has netted 110 goals in big time play, twice topping the 20 mark, and one of these years will become a 30-goal scorer.

A durable player who has not missed a game in six seasons, Wilson is noted for hard but clean play. He has twice won the Citron Trophy as the most sportsmanlike Red Wing, receiving the award first in 1954 and capturing it again last season.

Reared in a French-speaking community of Scottish parentage, Wilson is more fluent in the French tongue than many natives. A quiet, modest young man, he makes his permanent residence in Windsor in the off season. Married and the father of a son, John is employed by a Windsor firm specializing in the sale of aluminum siding and home fixtures.
